   The article "Shopee Becomes the Most Popular E-Commerce Platform Used by Indonesians in 2026" by Nabilah Muhamad, published by Databoks (Katadata) in September 2026, is an example of professional writing because it presents information about online shopping in Indonesia based on survey data. The data comes from a Snapcart online survey conducted from 17 to 21 August 2026 with 888 respondents (78% female and 22% male). The article reports which e-commerce platforms Indonesians use most often: Shopee (73%), TikTok Shop (16%), Tokopedia (7%), Lazada (3%), and Blibli (1%). It also points out the growing role of social commerce, because TikTok Shop ranks second.

   Purpose:
   To inform readers, businesses, and marketers about which online shopping platforms are most popular among Indonesian consumers and how shopping habits are changing.

   Tone:
   Professional, objective, and informative because it reports survey results with numbers and a clear data source, and it avoids emotional or casual language.

   Audience:
   E-commerce companies, online sellers, marketers, researchers, and general readers who are interested in online shopping trends in Indonesia.

   Example:
   This article can be considered a professional text because it is based on research data (sample size, survey period, and percentages), it is written in clear and formal language, and it helps readers and businesses make better decisions, for example in choosing which platform to sell on or advertise on.

2. My own experience

   Based on my experience, I often shop online because it is more practical than going to a physical store. I can search for products, compare options, and pay using only my smartphone, and the item is delivered to where I live. Like most Indonesian shoppers in the article above, I use Shopee as my main platform. Before buying, I usually check the product description, the size information, the seller's profile, and the available discounts and vouchers, so that I get a fair price.

A recent example is my purchase of a Karla Top (a women's semi-wool blouse) from the Shopee store GAFINA.ID, which has the Star+ seller badge. These are the details of that order:

- Product and variant: Karla Top, colour Brown, size L (bust circumference 100 cm), quantity 1.
- Price: The original price was Rp159,000, but it was on sale for Rp79,500 (about 50% off). After vouchers and shipping discounts were applied, my total was Rp66,891.
- Delivery: The seller shipped it with SPX Standard. I could track the parcel, and it arrived at my address on 8 August 2026 at 12:12, only a couple of days after the order was placed.
- After-sales support: When the status changed to "Order Completed", the app offered me options such as requesting a return, contacting the seller, contacting customer service, buying again, and rating the product.

This experience shows the advantages of online shopping. First, I saved a lot of money because the discount and vouchers made the final price much lower than the original price. Second, I saved time and energy because I did not have to visit several clothing stores and could choose the colour and size from home. Third, the shipping was fast and trackable, so I always knew where my package was.

However, online shopping also has some disadvantages. I cannot touch the fabric or try on the clothes before buying them, so I have to rely on the photos, the description, and the size chart. That is why I paid attention to the measurement (bust circumference 100 cm) when choosing the size. The real colour and material can also look a little different from the photos on the screen. Another risk is that there are many sellers, so it can be difficult to know which one is trustworthy. For this reason, I prefer sellers with good ratings and badges such as Star+, and I make sure that the platform provides a return option in case a problem happens.

Overall, I think online shopping is very useful and convenient, especially for saving time and money. However, customers should be careful when choosing products and sellers, read the description and size information carefully, and use the platform's protection features to avoid disappointment.
